meet the designers

jeffrey huyghe

Jeffrey Huyghe is a Belgian designer with a unique vision on minimalistic design. His style is challenging to encapsulate in a single word but centres on simplicity—featuring surprising details, unexpected movements, and a thoughtful use of materials. For Jeffrey, design is an ongoing evolution, with each new creation presenting fresh challenges and opportunities.

His inspiration draws from a multitude of diverse sources. Whether it's architecture, nature, or graphic art, Jeffrey perceives design potential everywhere. He often works with details that inspire him in buildings or objects, developing these ideas into something new. This process is dynamic and not tied to a fixed formula—sometimes a design starts with a problem, a specific material, or even a mechanical concept.

Jeffrey's collaboration with Joli is particularly valuable to him, as both he and Joli share a vision of craftsmanship, quality, and sustainability. He appreciates the European production and open communication within the team, which allows him to continue pushing boundaries and working on timeless products alongside Joli.

As a designer, Jeffrey is particularly focused on balancing sustainability with innovative use of materials. At Joli, the Arcs table is a clear reflection of his vision. It is this kind of ingenious, aesthetic, and functional design that makes Jeffrey Huyghe such a valuable partner for Joli.

mathias de ferm

Mathias De Ferm is a designer who strives for the essence of form and function. Every design starts with a fundamental question: what is the true purpose of an object? With a strong focus on ergonomics, material selection, and production techniques, Mathias creates minimalistic and durable designs that are aesthetically refined and functionally optimized.

Sustainability is at the core of his work, shaping his vision of ecological design. Through the development of extensive product and furniture series, Mathias has refined a holistic design approach. Each collection is thoughtfully crafted, featuring a distinct signature where craftsmanship and innovation come together.

Mathias describes his design style as timeless and distinctive from what's already on the market. He values durable materials and technical challenges, which are central to his creations. Inspiration for his work comes from a variety of sources, including technology, nature, art, and unique objects. For Mathias, each project can either begin with a detailed briefing or a sudden inspiration sparked by something as simple as a leaf or a bicycle part.

For Mathias, sustainability is a fundamental requirement, to design products that will last. His use of materials such as wood and metal ensures both durability and timeless appeal. The Wire chair, one of his standout designs, exemplifies his approach. Made from stainless steel, the chair is built to last for years and if it ever needs to be discarded, it remains fully recyclable. It's simple in form but stands out for its ergonomic design and distinction from other chairs.

John Ghekiere, founder of Joli and a member of the R&D team, transformed his passion for crafting metal tables into a successful brand in 1996. He quickly realised that a strong brand is more than just a product—it embodies values and trust. At Joli, innovation is key, with each new collection designed to meet evolving market needs.

John's commitment to creating outdoor-proof furniture that bridges the gap between indoor and outdoor spaces is at the heart of Joli's philosophy. With a focus on local production, Joli proudly manufactures 90% of its products in Belgium, ensuring quality and sustainability.

Working with a dynamic team of R&D professionals, John blends experience with cutting-edge digital techniques, creating designs that are both innovative and functional. His vision for Joli is to continue pushing boundaries in both design and production, all while adapting to the ever-changing global market.

For John, design is about blending tradition with modernity, and he is driven by the desire to pass on his knowledge to the next generation of designers.
